Here is the transcript of the video, listen again and underline the mistakes.

Aren't we on the same English course?

We are. How's it going?

Not bad, except I sometimes have trouble with my grammar, isn't it? I mean sometimes I perfect, but other times I don't, won't they?

I'm alright with my grammar, my problem's with spelling. I can't spell to save my loaf. I have to have a spellchecker on my computer.

Look at it this way, you can lead a horse to water, but you can't eat it too. Do you know what I'm saying?

No, not really.

I think she sometimes has trouble mixing metaphors, aren't she?

Sorry guys, I'm always crying over spilt chickens before they're hatched.

It's alright for you all, I've got a very small vocabulary.

What's that like?

It's alright for you all, I've got a very small vocabulary.

That's ok, I have problems with my emphasis.

Your emphasis?

Yes, my emphasis on different parts of the sentences. In my job, that can cause a lot of awkwardness.

What do you do?

I'm a speech therapist.

A peach therapist that can't spike properly. I'm surprised your boss hasn't sucked you.

It's alright for you all, I've got a very small vocabulary.

Can I make a suggestion? Why don't you purchase a dictionary? You'll save yourself a lot of embarrassment.

I tell you what. Why doesn't we all try studying together isn't it? How doesn't next week sound, didn't we?

Grape idea.

Fabulous.

Yeah, give him an inch and it's worth two in the bush.

It's alright for you all, I've got a very small vocabulary.

Shut up! Isn't it?
